

National Junior Angus Showmanship Contest

Louisville, KY • July 19 & 21, 2012

The first National Junior Angus Showmanship Contest was held at Keeneland Race Course in Lexington, Kentucky in conjunction with the 1967 American Angus Breeder's Futurity. Since 1974, the Contest has been moved to coincide with the National Junior Angus Show, but the idea is still the same — the best showmen in the country compete for the title of "Champion Angus Showman." To be eligible to compete in the contest, participants must qualify by placing first or second in their respective state junior showmanship contest. Each contestant in the national contest receives a specially designed photo plaque and a cash award. The top five showmen also receive silver Revere bowls and added prize money. The contest is a grand opportunity to meet other showman and learn new techniques of showmanship.
