

2022 ANGUS FOUNDATION COMMERCIAL CATTLEMEN SCHOLARSHIP GUIDELINES AND APPLICATION

February 15, 2022

The Angus Foundation is extending their scholarship program to young men and women utilizing registered Angus genetics in their commercial cattle operation. These youth and/or their parents/guardians must use registered Angus genetics in their commercial breeding program. Youth eligible are pursuing an undergraduate degree in animal science, agriculture, rangeland management or a technical trade, and are seeking financial support for the cost of their education at a university, community college or trade school. Scholarships consist of multiple $1,500 scholarships. Winners will be notified in July. Students from an Angus seedstock background are NOT eligible, only commercial.

Once a qualified applicant's application has been determined complete and eligible for review, it will be considered by the Angus Foundation's Scholarship Selection Committee comprised of two Angus Foundation representatives, two Angus industry representatives and one beef cattle industry leader.
